

Carole A. Daley

Carole grew up in Southern California with a family tradition of musical excellence, beginning piano studies by age five; but her primary interest was always visual arts. An avid international traveller, she lived in many US cities as well as London, England; continually seeking out art museums and galleries. After a lifetime of supporting the arts, continuous studies in art and a twenty-year banking career she decided to pursue her passion in visual arts on a classical academic level by earning a degree from Laguna College of Art + Design.

Her current series scrutinizes landscapes, both urban and natural, focusing on human intrusion and transformation. Depicting how people degrade or improve the environment is fundamental in her work. Rather than slavishly applying the methodologies mastered in traditional art schools, Ms. Daley subverts classical figurative painting to push forward visceral content.
